Sleek Style with Hörmann Interior Doors

Hörmann UK have further enhanced their comprehensive range of interior doors with the launch of a number of new products and finishes, all designed and developed in response to the changing trends and fashions being seen in interior design.

The launch of a collection of industrial style glazed steel doors, together with a range of steel loft doors reflects the trend for interiors to incorporate more natural light. Suitable for residential and project installation they offer a particularly sleek and stylish addition to any building.

The glazed industrial style doors are available in two versions and can be configured as either a hinged or sliding door. Glazing is supplied in Clear or Clear White and is highlighted with elegant black lines, with lever handles and fittings in the latest Black Edition, further enhancing door's elegant, modern appearance.

With the introduction of the steel loft doors, Hörmann is offering both flexibility and creativity for residential and commercial projects. Supplied with a maximum element size of 5000 mm wide x 4000 mm high the ability to form partial walls, room dividers and offices is possible, whilst providing the feeling of space and light. Fitted with slim surface-mounted rails with a visible width of only 15mm, the system is available with a choice of two glazing beads - angled or slim. Fittings and accessories are supplied in either Jet black RAL 9005 or stainless steel adding to the contemporary finish.

Hörmann timber doors with the robust, hardwearing Duradecor surface finish are now available in the new, on-trend Dusty Grey finish, and the addition of Black Edition fittings and accessories results in a particularly eye-catching and modern door. Duradecor finish timber doors are also offered with a contrasting edge to add a special flair, with the selection of edge colours including black, anthracite and white.

Mark Lester, Internal Door Manager at Hörmann UK comments, "Hörmann are well known for their range of quality internal doors and are one of Europe's most successful interior door providers. Being able to keep pace with changing trends in interior design is important to us and the recent additions to our range mean that we can offer end consumers, housebuilders, and architects the very latest in style and design.

We know that the industrial style glazed doors and steel loft doors are both going to prove popular as they reflect the desire to bring additional light into interiors whilst providing the Hörmann guarantee of quality."
