Hörmann UK – market leading doors for all

Hörmann UK will be exhibiting their full range of residential doors at the FIT Show featuring the most popular designs and styles from their composite, steel, and aluminium ranges, together with a selection of 'fitter friendly' roller garage doors. An exciting expansion to the 'Hörmann Rewards Fitters' loyalty programme will be featured along with fun to be had with a special guest appearance by ex-Gladiator Wolf. There will also be the chance to face the challenge of an arcade claw machine to win a composite door and many other prizes.

Offering the market a complete 'one stop shop,' Hörmann will be showcasing the most popular styles and colours from its comprehensive entrance door range – Truedor a competitively priced composite door, the high-performance range of Thermo46/65 steel doors and their sleek and stylish range of aluminium doors. All products are supplied to the market Carbon Neutral reflecting the continuing consumer desire for sustainable products.

The recognised Truedor range offers installers a wide selection of composite doors backed by the Hörmann brand and support. With over 30 years of experience in the manufacture of composite doors, IG Doors produce the Truedor range from a high-tech facility in Blackwood, South Wales and are the only supplier of volume GRP composite doors in the UK to manufacture their own door slab. Doors featured on the stand will include their Clima63 thermally efficient doors, the Draig 30-minute fire door and Platinum44, a cost effective steel door set within a PVC frame.

Hörmann's range of high performance range Thermo46/65 steel and aluminium entrance doors offer the consumer good looks and exceptional security, alongside impressive U-values as low as 0.87 W/m²k. Manufactured from high grade components and featuring high security locking systems, the range features an extensive choice of styles, accessories, and finishes for the discerning end consumer.

Garage doors from the Hörmann 'fitter friendly' range of RollMatic T roller doors will be displayed, including the 'Entrance Gate' option being shown for the first time in the UK. This option has been introduced to meet the increasing requirement for a compact and reliable door for installation as an entrance passage at property boundaries, with an IP 65 weather rating ensuring protection to both faces of the door.

Operation of all entrance doors and garage doors on the stand will be via remote control hand transmitters and Bluetooth technology using a mobile phone or tablet.

David O'Mara, Marketing Manager of Hörmann UK comments, "The FIT show is an exciting time for Hörmann as it provides us with the ideal opportunity to showcase our complete entrance door range. We have achieved impressive growth in the composite market since we launched the Truedor range at the last FIT show and we now have an exciting new website and consumer brochure to further help support sales in the market.

The Hörmann Truedor range complements our existing range of products, meaning that we can offer a door for each price point in the market, all backed by the Hörmann guarantee of choice, quality, and service. The FIT show also gives us the opportunity to talk garage doors and encourage more installers to expand their product portfolios."
